

Symposium - Failure analysis

The main objective of the ICSI Failure analysis Symposium is to disseminate works and studies of engineering components, structures or systems based on case studies, experimentally validated numerical simulations, or material characterization methods. The scientific papers should analyze the failures presented, emphasizing the investigation of the failure mechanisms, the identification of the failure root causes, and the proposal of preventive actions to avoid new failures.

organized by Virginia Infante, Manuel Freitas and Cesar Azevedo, please contact Virginia Infante

a Engineering Failure Analysis special issue is available